The Editor's Column

I'll Take August

Here we are four days into July already. If you were born this month, your birthstone is a ruby for nobility, according to my desk calendar, and your flower is larkspur for haughtiness, but don't come around here with haughtiness because it's not in the Carmel tradition, which says nobody has anything to be haughty about. There's always somebody just around the corner who is a little handsomer, a little brighter, a little more talented, or whatever, and if he isn't there now, he'll be arriving next week.

There are four other items printed on the calendar. Friday, July 4 ,Independence Day. That's nice, but like haughtiness, it can be overdone. Excessive independence isn't in the Carmel tradition, either. There's nothing to prevent anyone's cutting down trees unnecessarily on his lot, nor placing his house so that it spoils the outlook of his neighbor and the appearance of the street as a whole —nothing at all. This is a free country, but it can be a very lonesome one, too, for overly independent people.

On July 7, Hawaii was annexed in 1898, about which I know very little, so shan't burden you with wise observations. However, if you have some knowledge or opinions on the subject, they will be welcomed and printed in the next issue of The Pine Cone. This also holds true for the Postal System's establishment on July 26, 1775, but not for the First World War's beginning on July 28, 1914. I don't want to hear any more about it.

On the whole, July isn't a lively or suggestive month like August, which has the opening of the Panama Canal on the 15th and Woman Suffrage beginning on the 26th 1914 and 1920, respectively. Now those are two colorful events!

"I Hate To Do It—"

Harold O. Laughery, sanitarian, was in this week to announce with regret that he was on his way down to the Carmel River mouth to post the slough with contamination signs, thus stopping swimming before the season really gets under way. "It's a shame—I hate to do it—but it has to be done—every year."

It is a shame. There are a few days in the year when Carmel people, especially kids, yearn to swim. They look at the bay but know that it's too cold and too well equipped with down drafts and undercurrents to make the margin of safety against drowning sufficient to tempt even the skilful swimmer. They look at the Carmel River mouth—warm, quiet, shallow, ideal—but various unpleasant germs lurk in its polluted depths. What to do? Take consolation in the fact that there are very few days in this cool climate when the desire to go swimming is overwhelming (after all, this isn't Fresno), and encourage the school board to get the plunge built at the high school as soon as possible.—Wilma Cook.

New Super Takes Over At C. H. S.; Plans Pack Trip And Looks Over Sand Dunes As Possible Ski Run

Stuart Mitchell, the new superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District, is in Carmel preparing to move his wife and two daughters here in time for the opening of the school year, and making the acquaintance of members of the school board and the teaching staff. Before he settles in he plans to take his wife for a hike with pack animals along John Muir Trail in the High Sierras, leaving July 18. Of course he will be accompanied by as many 16 mm. films as he can obtain by that date, for his hobby is photography and he already has a library of mountain scenes.

STUART MITCHELL

One of Mr. Mitchell's most successful projects has been the arrangement of a color motion picture designed to assist in the teaching of grammar. It is called Subject, Verb, Object,and is at present being shown in four universities and many school systems throughout the country. In the preparation of this work he made use of various colors to symbolize the different parts of speech, and he recognizes that he scratched only the surface of possibility in making that experiment. Having unlimited administration credentials and being a candidate for a doctorate in education, he is in a position to realize that new methods of teaching are in the making.

During the next few days Mr. Mitchell will be in Berkeley interviewing applicants for the posi-

County Supervisors Go Into Action In Emergency Created By Abandonment Of Refuge By Fish and Game Comm.

From here on Monterey County carries the ball for the now non-existent Monterey Peninsula Game Refuge, which the California Fish and Game Commission abolished Friday at their meeting in San Francisco.

The vote of the commission was unanimous, arbitrarily taken over a heavy letter and telegram protest from Carmel, and after a presentation of the Peninsula's case by Carmel City Clerk Peter Mawdsley, Mrs. Harold Austin of San Francisco, representing the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, and by Major A. A. Caruthers, Monterey Peninsula Sportsmen's Association.

The Fish and Game Commission's action should thoroughly arouse the optimistic Monterey and Pacific Grove citizens who took the "It can't happen here attitude," and failed to show up at the meeting. Peter Mawdsley, representing Carmel city government, returned from the meeting saying, "The other cities of the Peninsula fell down on us. They should have had representation." He added, "The Fish and Game Commission gave us short shift; they weren't even courteous."

Mayor Fred Godwin, alarmed at the prospects of what will happen

WHO IS SILVIA?

During excavation at Steve Patterson's property behind the Chop House at Sixth and Lincoln on Wednesday afternoon, in preparation for the erection of a store and upstairs office space, workmen discovered a five-foot wooden bathing beauty of the vintage of 1900. Blue eyes and chartreuse bloomer costume, with bathing cap over dark curls never meant to be dunked, and bath slippers slightly frayed, won all the chivalry of the workmen who lifted the lady gently and placed her recumbent in a trailer.

Monterey And P.G. Scenes Of Big 4th Celebrations

Big doings for a 3-day Independence Day celebration have been organized by Sam Thornburg of the Seaside Chamber of Commerce and Bob Johnson of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce. A parade will go down Alvarado street at 10 a. m. today, leading the populace to the County Fair Grounds where the barbecue will begin at 11:30. The Lions Club '49er camp opens at noon and during the afternoon there will be donkey baseball games, amateur boxing matches, and horse show events. At 8:30 in the evening a dance will begin. This is the pattern for each of the three days, but on Sunday at 2:30, after the horse show finals there will be coronation of the elected king and queen.

At 2:00 o'clock this afternoon the public is invited to attend the Aquacade at the Pacific Grove municipal swimming pool, when the Athens Athletic Club of Oakland will give diving and racing exhibitions at the invitation of C. W. Easterbrook, principal of the Pacific Grove high school, who is also recreation commissioner for the city.

Pacific Grove has sent a butterfly float, decorated with garlands and girls, as their contribution to the big Watsonville carnival taking place today.

Old Grand Central, After Long Retirement, Is Back In Service For City Duty

The Old Grand Central is to be pressed back into service. After twenty years of retirement, Carmel's original city hall safe, put aside in favor of a newer and handsomer strong box, will again go back to work. Not for the city clerk, of course. Those days of glory are gone forever. But for the tax collector, and after all, you have to be pretty good to be the tax collector's safe. Even if something is wrong with your combination and you can't be locked securely, if you're fireproof, you've still got a lot of usefulness in you — if you're a safe — and Old Grand Central certainly is fireproof, all steel and weighing about 2,500 pounds.

A little of Carmel early history will emerge with Old Grand Central from the basement of the former city hall on Dolores street, when Street Superintendent William Askew and his crew announce some day next week that it's time "to get out that old safe for Tom Hefling." But there is more mystery than history. For instance, why does Carmel's first official city hall safe have Grand Central Hotel inscribed on it in slightly tarnished gold leaf letters? Where in time was the Grand Central Hotel? Could it be possible that back in 1916, when Carmel was incorporated, the proud and cocky little community bought a second hand safe! Or did someone make a substantial present to the city in the form of a 2,500 pound strong box?

Whatever its origin, it served as official city hall safe from the time of Carmel's beginning as a municipality until February, 1927, when a new safe was purchased. City Clerk Peter Mawdsley has the receipt for the purchase. Up until this time city hall had been located at the northwest corner of Dolores and Lincoln in the Phil Wilson building. But apparently Carmel city government was expanding. Not only was Old Grand Central no longer good enough, but the city hall itself was no longer adequate. In the following year the city packed up its official possessions and moved into the city hall on Dolores street, then known as the Post Office building, which it was at that time. City Clerk Peter Mawdsley has a lease signed by the late P. W. Morgan, Jr., brother of De Neale Morgan. The rent was $90 per month. Later the city got the rent down to $65 a month, and would have probably lived there happy ever after, had not the new owner jumped the rent to $120 a month last winter, and the city bought a church and rectory for a city hall.

During all the twenty years the city occupied the Dolores street Post Office building, Old Grand Central sat alone, in the dark, in the basement. When the city government moved a few months ago, Old Grand Central was left behind. City Clerk Peter Mawdsley tried to interest several people in buying the aged piece of office equipment, but to no avail.

Where would you find anybody who would want a safe that does not lock?

Peter didn't know it but right in the office next to him in the new city hall quarters was the answer to his question. Tom Hefling, city tax collector, has to store his records on wooden shelves in what used to be an enclosed back porch of the rectory that now serves as city hall. He doesn't need a burglar proof safe. Who would burgle the tax records? But he does need fireproof protection for them. If the safe could be fixed so that the doors would close tightly—. City Street Superintendent Askew says he can fix the doors and if his friend Tom wants the safe, he'll move it. Tom wants the safe. Old Grand Central belongs once more!

GETTING AROUND THE PENINSULA

By GLENN CLAIRMONTE

The Monterey County Planning Commission met on Monday night to continue the discussion about the proposed zoning in the Carmel Valley and postponed decisions until the next meeting at the end of July. In the meantime the executive committee will meet July 12 for the purpose of touring the area in question, in order to be able to make adequate recommendations. Carmel Martin, one of the two members of the commission from the Peninsula, made the statement that whereas in the past property owners were content to say, "Nothing will happen and therefore we don't need regulations," now safeguards for the future are demanded in order to retain the desired character of the community, in case the unforeseen should occur.

Mrs. Margaret Moreau, leader of 400 householders who signed a petition protesting the increase in the price of milk, appeared at the Watsonville City Hall at 10 a. m. Tuesday, when the State Department of Agriculture's milk control board met to hold a hearing on requests of big milk distributors for new revenue to meet their labor costs. Sam Colburn of Carmel, Toni Ricketts of Monterey, and Katherine McCulley of Pacific Grove were in charge of circulating the petitions for signatures, and boys and girls canvassed the entire region within five days. Mrs. Moreau, chairman of the Peninsula chapter of the Progressive Citizens of America, explained that any increase in the mini-

PALO ALTO MIKES AND ? SEEK REVENGE SATURDAY

The Carmel Pine Cone softball nine journeyed to Palo Alto a few weeks back and handed the Mikes and Question Mark team a 3 to 0 trimming. Last week The Pine Cone also defeated the Lowes Realty nine from the same league in Palo Alto. It goes without saying that the Mikes and ? pastimers will be bearing down with all guns to hang a defeat on the locals and regain some prestige for softball as played around the Palo Alto area.

Last season Mikes and The Pine Cone met in three contests, with the Mikes winning two out of three. The visitors have an outstanding pitcher and a well-balanced aggregation in the field and at bat. Bill Turner, one of the best catchers to ever appear at Sunset Field, handles the slants for the Mikes hurlers, and it was his big bat which defeated The Pine Cone in the first meeting here last season.

Ky Miyamoto will toss them over for The Pine Cone with Manuel Nicholson behind the log. Softball fans are assured of a ding-dong battle and the wise ones will be there early as a capacity crowd is assured.

PALO ALTO LOWES REALTY BOWS TO PINE CONE, 3 TO 1

Although both teams were evenly matched, The Pine Cone nine capitalized on all the breaks handed them and emerged victorious over the Lowes Realty club from Palo Alto. Until the fifth frame Miyamoto and Bradshaw, rival pitchers, matched each other strikeout for strikeout with neither having too much difficulty with opposing swingers. Rip Belvail picked up a single in the third inning but he was snuffed out at third on a throw from the Palo Alto catcher. In the first of the fifth a Realty pinch hitter connected for the first blow off Ky but he was held on first when Studevant pegged out the succeeding batter. The last of the fifth proved the big inning for the locals when they tallied three markers on one hit. Gene Ricketts got a life when the second baseman booted his hot grounder. Harold Studevant's bunt was fielded by the pitcher and tossed far into right field allowing Ricketts to score with the first run of the ball game. Don Gibbs reached first on another error by the Palo Alto second sacker and Studevant scored on the play. Gibbs was sacrificed to second and scored on Jay Huffman's single. This completed the scoring for The Pine Cone but it was sufficient to hold the visitors safe.

The Realty boys threatened a rally in the last canto when they scored one run on a walk and a base hit. Ky bore down on the last two batters and added two more K's to his record, which gave him a total of 12 for the evening. The Palo Alto pitchers, Bradshaw and Cox, struck out 8 of The Pine Cone swingers.

Short Score:	R	H	E
Lowes Realty	1	2	4
Pine Cone	3	2	1

Batteries: Pine Cone—Ky Miyamoto and Joe Nicholson; Lowes Realty—Bradshaw, Cox and Vandevort.

Umpires: Del Monte and Rico.

LIONS DEFEAT FIREMEN IN ADULT LEAGUE OPENER

Displaying the same sharp form which they exhibited last season, the Carmel Lions Club softball ten scored a 6 to 3 victory over the hard working Carmel Fire Deparement aggregation. Staged before a large crowd at Sunset Field the contest was well played by both teams and was run off in one hour and ten minutes. A fine pitching performance by Paul Clemens decided the issue in favor of the Lions Club. Paul struck out an even dozen Firemen stickers and effectively scattered the 5 blows collected by the smoke-eaters. The Firemen threatened to pull the game out of the fire in the last frame when they put together two hits and a walk to score two markers. However, Gil Severns chose to take a chance on Kelly Taylor's arm and was promptly thrown out at the plate. On this entertaining play, Waldo Hicks, with the speed of a gazelle, ran Severns back to third base and tagged him out just before Gil reached the safety of the bag.

Kenny Roberts was on the mound for the Firemen and pitched creditable ball, allowing only 8 blows. All the hits were damaging, however, and the Lions turned them into runs.

Kelly Taylor, a loyal fan of Clyde Beatty and his lion show, sparked the Lion hitters by collecting a towering home run in the sixth frame. Kelly also garnered a blow in the fifth inning to make it 2 for 3 for the evening. Waldo Hicks, battery mate of Paul Clemens, also hit the offerings of Roberts for 2 out of 3.

Playing for the Lions: Jack Giles, Cliff Cook, Al Fry, Waldo Hicks, Paul Clemens, Cree Wilder, Reed Freeman, Mike Balazs, Dick Whitesides, Edward Graalfs, and Kelly Taylor.

For the Firemen: Rip Belvail, Bill Askew Sr., Montgomery, Wescott, Bernie Roberts, Hudelson, Johnson, Roy Wahl, Kenny Roberts, Gene Ricketts, Gil Severns, and Stan Hilbert.

Short score:	R	H	E
Firemen	3	5	3
Lions Club	6	8	1

Umpires: Andy Weimann and Andy Del Monte.

FACULTY SMASHES LIONS; FIREMEN HANDCUFF POLICE

You can't beat education. Again, as in 1946, that old adage was proved, when the powerful High School Faculty softball nine subdued the hustling Lions Club by a 10 to 4 count. Behind the stellar hurling of "Bugs" Dawson the Faculty found the going pretty easy and coasted after building up a 7 run margin in the fourth inning. "Reindeer" Giles, on the mound for the Lions, was greeted with a shower of base hits in the second inning, which saw the pedagogues score 4 counters. Martin Irwin, tall first sacker, connected for three blows in three times at bat to lead the hitters of both clubs. Kelly Taylor, who once saw a Lion at the zoo, led the Lions Club swingers with 2 for 3.

In another warmup encounter, preparatory to opening the Adult Summer League, the Ken Roberts led Firemen proved in a little better shape than the Police and edged them 6 to 4, in a spirited contest. Manager Roberts served them up for his smoke-eaters and he kept the Police pretty well in hand. Besides hurling good ball, Kenny dropped one over the right field wall for a resounding double. Ivan Kelsey, out of retirement again, took over the pitching chores for the Police and looked to be in mid-season form already. With a little healthier support Ivan would have come out of the contest unscathed.

All the teams in the Summer League appear to be evenly matched, and with the pitching about on a par it should be a closely bunched league.

Reginald Inwood To Design New All Saints' Church

The All Saints' Episcopal Church building committee last Sunday morning presented Reginald Inwood, the architect who specializes in the building of churches, to the Vestry, at a reception shortly after the church services. Mrs. R. R. Wallace, Mrs. Vera Peck Millis, Dr. Walter Lehman and Bruce Bacon, together with the Rev. Alfred B. Seccombe, recommended to the Vestry that Mr. Inwood be engaged to draw the plans for the proposed new church which will stand on the property now used as a rectory.

Mr. Inwood spoke briefly to explain his desire that the new church should be built in keeping with the Carmel tradition but also in recognition of the fact that the Episcopal Church draws from English background, and the Vestry approved his appointment. Blueprints will be completed by early fall, at which time a builder will be selected.

Mary Root Kern

Mrs. Mary Root Kern, a resident of Carmel for the past twelve years, passed away quietly in her sleep on Thursday, June 26, at her home at Monte Verde and Eighth streets.

She was born in North Reading, Mass., but spent most of her life in Chicago where she was active in educational and musical circles, being for thirty years head of the primary and normal departments of music in the School of Education, University of Chicago. She composed many published songs, those for children especially being widely used. Talented in painting as well as music, she followed art as a profession for a time in her youth, and during recent years in Carmel made many sketches.

Her husband was the late Paul O. Kern, professor of languages at the University of Chicago. She was the daughter of George F. Root, composer of the well-known "Battle Cry of Freedom" and other Civil War songs, and the sister of Frederic W. Root, composer, and Clara Louise Burnham, author.

She is survived by a son, Herman R. Kern of Carmel; a daughter, Josephine M. Kern of San Francisco; and a grandson, Spencer R. Kern of Carmel.

Eleanor Yates

Eleanor Walton Yates, widow of the late C. Halstead Yates, died at her home at Ocean and Casanova on July 1, at the age of 76. She was a native of Wilmington, Delaware, and had been a resident of Carmel for 27 years. Having been active in Virginia with her husband as the owner of the Halnor Kennels at Oak Ridge, she was the first president of the American Shepherd Club and devoted much of her life to advancing the breed of the German shepherd. She raised dozens of shepherds and Dalmatians and collected trophies at dog shows frequently, winning first place and bench certificates for many years. In Carmel she was as well known for her Red Cross work as for the fact that she and her husband owned The Game Cock, a specialty shop at Ocean and Lincoln, until 1941.

Mrs. Yates, highly talented, as a young woman turned down three professional offers to go on the stage. She was a feature writer on the Philadelphia Times, and in 1898 the prominent Philadelphia publisher, Henry Altemus Co., brought out her only novel entitled She Who Will Not When She May and it created a great stir at the time. Every large newspaper in the country printed long eulogies when the book appeared.

During the recent war Mrs. Yates was active in Red Cross work, especially in preparing scrapbooks for the soldiers. She had survived all her relatives but was surrounded by loving friends.

Peter J. Ferrante of the law firm of Hudson, Martin, Ferrante and Street, is the guardian and executor of her estate, and the Paul Mortuary made funeral arrangements. Upon the return of Rev. Alfred B. Seccombe from his vacation at Lake Tahoe memorial services will be held in All Saints' Episcopal Church, the date to be announced later.

Carmel Parish Is Host To Alumnae Of Sacred Heart

After a three day conference in San Francisco, 129 of the several hundred members of the Associated Alumnae of the Sacred Heart, representing 29 Convents throughout the United States and Mexico, drove down to attend mid-day Mass in Carmel Mission, June 30. Mass was celebrated by Reverend Eric O'Brien, O. F. M., vice-postulator of the Cause of Padre Serra. Music for the Mass was sung by the Carmel Mission Choir under the direction of Noel Sullivan.

After Mass, Harry Downie conducted the group through the Mission. Luncheon was served at the Mission Ranch. Father O'Brien, addressing the group in both English and Spanish, gave a resume of the research done on behalf of the Cause of Padre Serra.

Supervisors Go Into Action In Game Refuge Emergency

when hunting season opens, turned to the county government for help. Supervisor Andy Jacobsen immediately instructed District Attorney Anthony Brazil to discover what powers the county has to provide the protection that the Fish and Game Commission has withdrawn.

It was Attorney Brazil's informal opinion, expressed to The Pine Cone yesterday, that the county would not have the legal power either to set up a game refuge here, or to prohibit the firing of guns in the former refuge area. A no-shooting ordinance would have to cover the entire county, he believes, and could not be set up for just a portion of it.

Best outlook at present is in the possibility that the Fish and Game Commission were exceeding their powers in eliminating the refuge. The Monterey Peninsula Game Refuge was established by an act of legislature, and there is a question as to whether it is within the legal power of the Commission to eliminate a refuge so established.

Brazil will ask for an opinion from the Attorney General, and hopes to have a report for the supervisors when they meet Monday.

The Pine Cone has the assurance of Supervisor Andy Jacobsen that the county will do everything possible to set up some machinery for the protection of both wild life and human life in this area before rifle bullets begin to fly in the fall.—Wilma Cook.

The Clothesline Art Show has now grown to such proportions that the responsibility for selecting works to be hung can no longer be undertaken by one man, and therefore a Phantom Jury, composed of Carmel artists has been chosen. Number of painters now on the list of exhibitors has grown from 20 to 51, and the number of photographers from 3 to 9. It has been the custom to show the work of one ceramist and one woodcarver each weekend, and this proctice will continue.

During the second week in July Phil Nesbitt, Howell Armor, Jimmy Solte and Dick Norris will carry a complete outdoor art show to Walnut Creek, at the request of art lovers there, returning in time for the weekend showing at the Pine Inn Court as usual in time for the Bach Festival.

A ceramic and sculpture exhibit will be held under the same auspices in the Victorian Room of the Pine Inn for one week beginning September 6 and artists are invited to make entries for the prize contest to be held at that time. Three awards will be made in each department, the first prize to be $50 in cash, and other prizes to be awarded by local merchants and business men. The judges for that event are Whitney Atchley, member of the faculty of the California School of Fine Arts, Mrs. Beatrice Judd Ryan, curator of the Rotunda Gallery at the City of Paris, Edith Heath, commercial ceramist of the Bay Area, and F. Carleton Ball, instructor at Mills College. Exhibitors from Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties will be welcome to participate in the contest.

Carmel is one of the regional centers for the selection of oil paintings, water colors and sculpture to be sent to Sacramento for exhibit at the State Fair from August 28 to September 7. Grant Duggins, art exhibits supervisor, announces that for the first time in history the art at a state fair will be housed in a building of its own, the Arts and Crafts building. One of the features of the show will be sculptors at work, artists working in metals, sketching or painting in oils and water colors, while the public drifts by. There will also be a demonstration of clay modeling and firing. There will be a regular Art Day declared, and it is expected that many members of the Carmel Art Association will be represented.

REHEARSALS START FOR "DRUMS"

Rehearsals for the new Forest Theatre production, Distant Drums, by Dan Totheroh, will begin Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Victorian Room of the Pine Inn, and men over 35 are especially urged to volunteer for parts. Dan is also looking for a lad of 13 and a fiddler who can twang out the old songs of the trail.

Tante Marie Arrives in America

BY CONSTANCE LOW

"La Veritable Cuisine de Famille, par Tante Marie" has just arrived at my home in Carmel. This famous old cook book has been the standby and guide of French housewives and cooks for at least a hundred years and is still going strong. Chefs may sneer at her thrifty bourgeois recipes and thumb through the intricacies of Escoffier, but Tante Marie manages to hold her own generation after generation. Personally, I am glad to greet her and I have already tried with success some of her succulent suggestions to add savor to my Carmel kitchen.

Alas! In some respects I have bogged down. I manage to cope with changing grammes to ounces and pounds, but when it comes to changing these in turn to cups and spoonsful, I am defeated. Is a kitchen scale the only answer? Fortunately, some of Tante Marie's measures are delightfully elastic and can even be made to fit the condition of one's finances. For example, the measure of butter is "the size of a walnut" or "the size of an egg." Now, what walnut? The slightly underprivileged ones generously donated by friends in the Valley who have a tree, or the plutocratic ones sold each fall by our local grocers at slightly more than their weight in gold? Or should the egg be grade AA, extra large, U. S. A., or the first fruit of the valiant pullet? Let your bank account be your guide! Tante Marie also recommends "a dash of wine." If your wine is a precious bottle of Burgundy that you wish to drink with your dinner, then the dash may be a mere hyphen, but if you have a jug of California red ink at your elbow, then a dash may become a splash indeed.

Some of Tante Marie's advice is sometimes unsuitable for the American kitchen. In making a burnt sugar omelette, she suggests that you clean your coal shovel and heat it in the embers until red hot. After your omelette is cooked, sprinkle it with sugar and gently press on it the red hot shovel to caramelize the sugar. I looked reproachfully at my Wedgewood stove and was its face red! A burnt sugar omelette is more at home on the range.

Tante Marie is full of sage counsel. Following her recipe for "Potage a la bisque d'ecrevisses," she adds, "As this is an expensive soup and is only served when there is company, I have given this in larger proportions than for the other soups." After a mouth-watering recipe for boiled beef, she admonishes "Dans les diners de ceremonie, le bouef bouilli ne se sert pas." Evidently in France, boiled beef knows its social level and does not intrude itself.

In her foreword on sweets, Tante Marie tells us that the daughters of the house should always make the desserts. It not only shows her how to conduct herself in the kitchen, but it makes a fine impression on prospective suitors, when told at dinner that the young lady had made the pastry. La Tante severely affirms that the making of preserves and liqueurs should always be the responsibility of the mistress of the house herself, and should never be left to the cook.

Tante Marie is inclined to the didactic, but once in a while her confidence wavers, for example where mushrooms are concerned. When gathering mushrooms from the fields, always be careful that they are non-poisonous, she says sagely. A good test is, quote, "Place a quartered white onion in a pot of boiling water, together with some of the questionable mushrooms. If at the end of twenty minutes the onion has turned black, the mushrooms are bad. If on the other hand, the onion remains white, the mushrooms are good. (Maybe.)" End quote!

I love my Tante Marie, from the cover showing a befrilled young lady attentively listening to her buxom tante, to the last bit of advice on the last page. Tante Marie's parting words are, "Sauerkraut leaves an unpleasant aroma in a cooking-pot, so be sure to clean it with a half a pound of bicarbonate of soda and pure water from your well." Make yourself at home in Carmel, ma tante, and brighten our meals and sharpen our tastes, with your stimulating suggestions and savory counsel. Soyez le bien venu!

Festival Soloist Chosen To Sing With L. A. Philharmonic

Soloists for Carmel's Tenth Annual Bach Festival are of impressive eminence. Introduced for the first time this season will be the young American contralto, Eula Beal. The name of Eula Beal became known to all who follow music news in Southern California in 1942, when Bruno Walter chose her from among dozens of applicants to sing Gustav Mahler's Kindertotenlieder with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra under his direction.

Since that momentous evening, the lovely voice of Eula Beal has been heard with many of the major orchestras in this country and Canada, and everywhere she has been highly acclaimed. Her appearance with the San Francisco Symphony, Pierre Monteux conducting, this spring resulted in a return engagement for next season as the contralto soloist in Verdi's Requiem.

Miss Beal will be contralto soloist in the B Minor Mass on Sunday, July 29, and will be heard on Thursday evening in a solo cantata, Strike, Thou Hour.

TWO FIRE CALLS

The Volunteer Firemen responded to two fire calls this weekend. Saturday afternoon at 2:45, 18 volunteers appeared at Seventh and Casanova to put out a grass and brush fire which had been started by hot ashes. On Monday at 8 a. m., 23 volunteers rushed to the Lawrence home on Mission between Third and Fourth streets, and the engine was back at the station house within 10 minutes, the fire in the bathroom extinguished. Towels hanging too near an electric heater had set up a blaze which scorched the wall and burned a curtain and window shade.

Carmalita Benson Co-director of S. F. Little Theatre

Mrs. Carmalita Benson has accepted a position as co-director (with David Hunter, director) of the Bay Theatre in San Francisco and will be in charge of business arrangements and public relations. This little theater is conducted under the sponsorship of the adult education department of the San Francisco Board of Education and has been attracting a good deal of attention in the newspapers because it has stimulated community interest in drama.

The group has recently closed their production of Borrowed Time and the next play to open, at the Marina Junior High School, is Jean Cocteau's Infernal Machine. Mrs. Benson will spend a part of each week in her home at Carmel.

She first came to Carmel in 1943 and organized the AWVS here, later was on the committee of three which sponsored the summer series of concerts in 1945 and 1946. She is president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer.

PUPPET SHOW PLAYS TO CAPACITY AUDIENCE

Before a wide-eyed, enthusiastic audience of 70 boys and girls, ranging in ages from 4 to 10, the puppets, so aptly maneuvered by Carol and Laurel Del Hildebrand, went through their antics in a thrilling serial presented each Monday morning at the Sunset Library. All the youngsters left the show debating the fate of the hero and heroine of this engaging serial. Parents who want to leave their sprouts for an hour of fun can rest assured they will be well entertained and supervised at this show. Miss Janice Noy, playground supervisor, will be present at the Puppet Show to lend a hand with the audience.

PRE-SCHOOL GROUP IN RUTH ALLERHAND'S CLASSES

Because of the interest shown by youngsters of pre-school age, Ruth Allerhand has added them to her classes. This group will meet with Mrs. Allerhand on Tuesday from 1:30 to 2:15 in the Sunset Library. Another feature added to the dancing program is social dancing instruction, which is scheduled for Thursdays from 1:30 to 2:30. Social dancing is open to boys and girls from 12 to 19 years of age. Everyone attending Mrs. Allerhand's classes is having a lot of fun and they are acquiring a wealth of dancing skill and poise at the same time. The complete dancing schedule is printed below:

Tuesday, 1:30-2:15, creative dancing, pre-school group; 2:15-3:30, creative dancing, ages 12-19.

Thursday, 1:30-2:30, social dancing, boys and girls, ages 12-19; 2:30-3:30, creative dancing, ages 7-19.

ROOM FOR MORE MUSIC ENTHUSIASTS

John Farr, who holds forth at the Sunset School music room from 9 a. m. to 12 each day, has room for more students in band, orchestra, and chorus. Youngsters of all ages are welcome to attend these sessions and there is no charge for any of the lessons. Instruments are furnished for beginners and a beginners session is held each day from 11 to 12. If you want to toot a horn, cut a lick on a fiddle, or sing a bit, get in one of these classes.

MONDAY NIGHT SOFTBALL LEAGUE FOR KIDS

On Monday nights the Sunset Field is reserved for the little sprouts who want to play softball under the lights. A four team league has been organized so they can get the taste of league competition. Teams from Carmel are: Herald Carriers, Boys Club Midgets, and Sunset Tigers. The fourth team in the league is composed of Pacific Grove Herald Carriers.

Any Carmel boys, ages 10 to 14, who are not signed up for a team, and who would like to play with the Sunset Tigers, should see Mr. Blee at the Sunset playground and get a tryout. The first league games are scheduled for next Monday night with the Sunset Tigers playing the Boys Club Midgets at 7 o'clock, and the Carmel Herald Carriers meeting the Pacific Grove Carriers at 8:15.

The Pine Cone Juniors, who won the championship of the kids league last year, have outgrown the league and will play teams from the neighboring cities in preliminary games to the Adult League contests.

Dream Girl Cast, Rehearsals Are On

Dream Girl, the Elmer Rice comedy hit, has been almost cast and the Monterey Peninsula Community Players are busy with rehearsals.

The actors are being directed by Lee Crowe, whose portrayal of the Dauphin in Joan of Lorraine was outstanding. Also fresh from their work in Joan are Jana Garth, Lloyd Weer, Gene Kaufman, Albert Van Houtte, Nicky LeFeuvre, Adrian Sherman and Richard Sumner.

Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts, Mrs. Chester Hare, Ruth Ford and Virginia Mikulak are also appearing in the cast. Edward Kuster plans to present the play on four consecutive Mondays, starting July 28, in the Golden Bough Playhouse.

TERMITES!
Man's Worst Enemy

Damage to homes each year is more than twice as great as damage from fire. Your home may be new with causes present that will lead to termite and fungus rot damage. Your home may be infested now.

The thoughtful owner will not wait for damage to occur when his home may be guaranteed now against damage through the years ahead.

We will inspect your home, report the conditions, make recommendations and give a contract estimate of costs for repairs, corrections and guarantee control.

Have You Read . . . ?

By Dora Hagemeyer

The title of the new collection of poems by Langston Hughes, "Fields of Wonder," attracts the reader before he has opened the book. And the "wonder" is to be found before many pages are turned, the clear sunny singing, the grief transmuted, the questions still unanswered but containing their own answer. "In time of silver rain . . . the wonder spreads."

Here is the true charm of poetry: the ecstasy merely hinted, never too completely; so that the reader experiences the fresh delight for himself. He is the discoverer. The poet has merely opened the gate. These little lyrics, of short lines deeply felt or merely brushed with thought, are in themselves "mighty touchstones of song." They kindle, they shatter, they awaken. Grief, race-grief, drives its dark thrust; joy enters like star-beams; mere happiness is an earth-song. These free-moving rhythms, caught before they become obvious, release rather than curb the music. It is a beauty of spirit beyond that of mind and heart. It does not stay to complete. It kindles and moves on.

Langston Hughes has kept his heart open to all human problems. His awareness is keen and sensitive. He gives himself freely to a wide range of moods and emotions but—he never loses hold of his contact with reality. He is primarily a human being, threading his way through the city, toiling in the fields, subject to peace and persecution, praise and condemnation. But above and beyond this he listens for the sudden song in the most unexpected places. Out of the chaos of modern living he retrieves "one handful of dream-dust, not for sale."

Born in Joplin, Missouri, in 1902, this fine poet began his career at the Central High School in Cleveland where his poetry first appeared in the school magazine. He studied for a year at Columbia University and after this entered upon a time of wandering and uncertainty until the discovery of his talent by Vachel Lindsay who read some of his poems in the Little Theatre in Washington. From then on he devoted himself to writing.

In 1925 Langston Hughes was awarded first prize for poetry by the magazine "Opportunity," and he was later offered a scholarship at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania where he received his B. A. in 1929. He was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1935.

Although much honor has come to him, Langston Hughes has retained his humility and natural simplicity. His spirit is wreathed with the sun. He "wanders through this living world and leaves uncut the roses," and perhaps that is why we become so aware of their fragrance.

Another book of contemporary poetry which claims attention at this time is the masterly sequence called "The Pageant of Man," by Stanton A. Coblentz. Published several years ago, this epic of man's progress through time deserves the scrutiny of the careful reader. In these days of haste and scattered effort it will well repay the patience and concentration required to complete the study of this fine work. Seldom has a modern poet schooled himself sufficiently in true vision to achieve such a comprehensive survey of man's spirit in its effort towards enlightenment. It is indeed "major music," finely conceived and beautifully executed. "The mountains, hills and spires of man's creation" pass before our eyes: "New landscapes of the heart and mind" refresh our inner sight; "Beauty winnows her rich-kerneled grain" and the pettiness of life recedes before the noble outlines of man's potentialities.

Stanton Coblentz will shortly publish a Guide-book to Poetic Technique. It is called "An Editor Looks at Poetry." As editor of the fine quarterly "Wings," Mr. Coblentz is eminently well-fitted to write such a book. His judgment is extremely valuable both to the writer and the reading public. He has a rare sense of the essence of true poetry.

MOONLIGHT NIGHT: CARMEL

Tonight the waves march
In long ranks
Cutting the darkness
With their silver shanks,
Cutting the darkness
And kissing the moon
And beating the land's
Edge into a swoon.

IN TIME OF SILVER RAIN

In time of silver rain
The earth
Puts forth new life again,
Green grasses grow
And flowers lift their heads,
And over all the plain
The wonder spreads
Of life,
Of life,
Of life!

In time of silver rain
The butterflies
Lift silken wings
To catch a rainbow cry,
And trees put forth
New leaves to sing
In joy beneath the sky
As down the roadway
Passing boys and girls
Go singing, too,
In time of silver rain
When spring
And life
Are new.

GRIEF

Eyes
That are frozen
From not crying.

Heart
That knows
No way of dying.

PRAYER

Gather up
In the arms of your pity
The sick, the depraved,
The desperate, the tired,
All the scum
Of our weary city
Gather up
In the arms of your pity.
Gather up
In the arms of your love—
Those who expect
No love from above.

Days Before Yesterday

If we are in a mood for looking into the past, why not go far enough back to recognize the really early beginnings of Carmel? In The Pine Cone issue of December 28, 1928, there is meat for cogitation, for we read:

"If you will go down to the beach and poke around one of Elizabeth McClung White's dunes you'll discover a heap of shell fragments just beneath the sand, where the early inhabitants of Carmel-by-the-Sea smoked their fish and tossed their cracked abalone soup plates.

"These natives were surrounded by the identical hills and sea that bound us. They enjoyed the same soft June days, month after month, interspersed at rare intervals with sou'westers of blurred gas attacks from the foggy Pacific.

"In the beginning of California history—a century before it had its name—it was the most inhabited spot in America. There were easily 700,000 souls subsisting along this coast. Like us they were a bit scrappy but not too much so. Before the coming of the Irish and the discovery of gold no Californian had much use for a fight. In the early days they were noted for poor table manners, and sanctimoniousness. They dined on snakes, lizards, insects and rats, did their hair in a queue, and tossed a grasshopper into their cocktails in place of a cherry.

"There was no capital punishment in Old Carmel. Killers got off easy and in spite of it murders were infrequent. Then women and beads were the legal coinages of the realm. Objects for sale in bazaars were priced in both. A drum of smoked fish at a bargain cost two women or a hundred beads. Men were not supposed to be worth anything and the supposition was correct. They were a luxury, an obligation, an expense to the community. They did all the loafing that was done, and the women all the work. When the mischievous murderer called on his victim's relatives to settle up, his first question would be, 'How many women (or beads) will it cost me?' The price for a woman murder was just half that for a man.

"In the earliest Carmel days the lords of creation wore belts for ordinary street attire. Correct evening dress, as rigidly fixed then as now, consisted of a breech clout called a G string and fastened with a mother of pearl stud. On all occasions the women wore aprons of woven grass. There is little warmth in a belt or an apron of grass, even during a winter as mild as those in Carmel. When the cool breezes began to blow both sexes smeared a thick coating of mud over their bodies. These adobe underclothes are the forerunners of present day undies, and it cannot be said in this case that modern innovations are an improvement. Liquid mud, when it dries, fits the human form to perfection. No buttons are required and rips and tears are repaired instantly with a handful of goo. Rheumatism was unknown in Old Carmel.

"They had not boats, but sat astride rafts like ranchers on horseback and, with lariat in hand, they attempted to lasso sea lions, but it is not recorded that they succeeded. A stranded whale on the beach provided food for a generation, and historical events were dated from the Blubbery Age of Plenty.

"They had no boats, but sat astride rafts of a twentieth century Carmelite to discover how closely the old and new resemble each other. Truly we are the victims of our environment. Such things as hills, ocean and climate inexorably shape our lives. If there are among us today any Carmelites aspiring to be energetic, they are, like their predecessors, putting it off until the hereafter."

If living Carmelites regret the good old days, let them look far enough back to the time when life in a state of nature was short and brutish. In present-day Carmel we can appear to be close to nature but can at the same time luxuriate with the discoveries of science. And today women outweigh a handful of beads in value, although they don't pretend to do all the work.

Mosquitoes, Elections, Girls' State Furnishes Plenty Of Excitement

By Peggy Riker

I imagine it would be difficult for anyone adequately to describe one of the most wonderful weeks of his life and so I find it hard to put into words my own experiences at California Girls' State, from which I have just returned as delegate from Carmel. Aside from being eaten alive by mosquitoes and roasted in one of Sacramento's heat waves, I was part of an experiment in practical political science which, I believe, proved that the young women of today, if equipped with the proper knowledge, are capable of becoming leaders in our state, national, and even world government.

California Girls' State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, is a model state with its own city, county, and state government, set up and run entirely by the girls themselves. Each delegate has a chance to run independently in either her city or county, and thus we learned through actual experience how to carry on an election, and aided by many excellent lectures, we gained a working knowledge of some of the intricacies of our government. All 250 girls were divided into two parties, the Nationalists and the Federalists, symbolizing the two political groups now existing in our country.

Burning campaign speeches, short sheeted beds filled with crackers, party platforms, and "my candidate," became the talk of the day. Girls' State went wild! But as in any election, after the ballots were counted sanity reigned again, and we calmed down to find that we had elected a governor who really meant business, who was sincere in wanting our ideals and ideas carried forward toward their realization. California can well be proud of this grand girl who is traveling to Washington, D. C., in August as its representative at Girls' Nation.

We all had the pleasure of meeting Governor Earl Warren, and as an assemblyman I also sat in the State Assembly with James W. Silliman and was allowed to vote on several bills which were brought up that afternoon. In the senate, Girls' State Governor, Alberta Engvall, read her message to the Governor and the Legislature, which included the recommendations we had formulated for the improvement of health and safety conditions in our state and provisions for the welfare of its citizens.

A well balanced program, good meals, understanding counselors, and the wonderful spirit of every girl there, blended to make the fourth annual Girls' State a memorable one which none of us will soon forget. It instilled in each of us an interest in our government and a pride in our way of life.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The Picnic Was a "Hug" Success!

Our local Wild Life League went on a picnic Saturday, and I went along to cover it for the Clarion. Monday, folks kept stopping me, and saying: "Must have gotton out of hand, that picnic!"

"Nonsense," I says. "It was mighty pleasant and congenial. Just beer and hot dogs, cheese and cider." And then they show me the headline reading: "WILD WIFE PICNIC HUG SUCCESS."

Of course it was Elmer, my typesetter, who had made the misprints: But is my face red! It's only because folks are so temperate and well-behaved in our town, that they could afford to take the whole thing as a joke.

From where I sit, even a newspaper editor's entitled to a few mistakes. And since I reported that they served a moderate beverage like beer, I'm sure nobody thinks the picnic was the least bit wild, or anything but a huge success—and I mean huge!

WATER A DOLLAR A BUCKET

That's what the precious fluid cost in San Francisco in Gold Rush days, and that's how people got their water . . . in a bucket. Now, all one has to do to get a bucketful is turn a tap. The cost? Only a small fraction of a cent.

To deliver water in the quantities you need when you need it, your water company is constantly at work, keeping reservoirs clean, testing the water for safety, flushing pipe lines and keeping them in repair, improving and expanding facilities to keep abreast of growing demand. The work of maintaining a modern water system, the life-line of any community, goes on behind the scenes twenty-four hours a day.

With RICHARD SUMNER

It's a grand and glorious 4th of July and to celebrate the occasion THE CARMEL BOOKSELLERS on Mission street, two blocks north of Ocean Avenue, are offering an exhibition of the well known local artist, Phil Nesbitt. Falling in with the Yankee Doodle Dandy theme Phil is exhibiting some of his delightful water colors of American Revolutionary figures, also several new drawings. On Saturday afternoon, July 5, at four o'clock, THE CARMEL BOOKSELLERS are holding open house for the community and its visitors. Oh yes, there will be refreshments.

LIAL'S MUSIC SHOP on Ocean Avenue at the corner of Monte Verde, offers the new English Decca full frequency range records. This is an outstanding development in perfect reproduction of music and voice. Those who thrill to fine music should hear the album of Stabat Mater by Pergolisi and sung by the Nottingham Oriana Choir, and Igor Stravinsky's Petrouchka with Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra. LIAL'S MUSIC SHOP is proud to offer these superb records to Carmel.

A must for Carmel is a visit to THE HIGHLANDS INN. Located a few miles south of Carmel, high on the hillside, it offers a view that is breathtaking in its grandeur. From the dining room, the lobby and the cocktail lounge, one can enjoy the rugged beauty of the Pacific Coast. And the food is superb. The dining room is in the capable hands of Michel, formerly of the Cypress Point Club, and the kitchen is in charge of Vello Vellii, former chef of the liner Gripsholm. For your next luncheon or party you should certainly call 350 or 564 and place your reservation. The hotel is run on the American Plan and is managed by Mr. C. Mark Thomas. THE HIGHLANDS FLING ROOM is open from 4 p. m. until midnight and it is truly a must for Carmelites.

NEW IN CARMEL is MAC'S POULTRY MARKET, a spic and span shop on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth. Mac's poultry, so well known in Monterey, is now available here. Daily there are fresh killed chickens—your choice of fryers, roasters, broilers, and hens for fricassee. For delicious and different dinners there are squabs, ducks, turkeys, and rabbits—at prices that are a real saving. And don't forget the fresh ranch eggs at MAC'S POULTRY MARKET.

Good taste in your printing rebounds favorably for you and your business. The printing that is done by THE CARMEL PINE CONE carries with it a part of the distinction that characterizes our community. Whether it's your business letterhead or your personal card THE PINE CONE'S Printing Shop will do it tastefully and skillfully.

THE VAGABOND'S CORNER in The Highlands Inn announces a showing by Barbara Gordon and Gipsy Coulter of most unusual handpainted cravats, ascots, handloomed head squares and exquisite handpainted blouses. Among other choice finds at THE VAGABOND'S CORNER is Heirloom textile suitings, handwoven in California, and perfect for women's tailored clothes. And for the man in the family there are imported pipes of select briar.

To assist you toward acquiring a lovely, lithe figure see THELMA TILSON at The Pioneer next to the Post Office. From her complete stock of Charis and Bestform foundation garments you have a choice of anything from a lightweight girdle to a heavier garment, fine for the sturdy figure. All sizes—all styles—in cotton, nylon and rayon. There are panty girdles, too—and brassieres. And if you have an old pet of a girdle that needs repair, take it to THELMA TILSON.

THE VILLAGE BOOKSHOP on Ocean Avenue announces the arrival of an important new book from the Stanford University Press, "The Ancient Mayan," by Sylvanus G. Morley. It is a masterly presentation of the life and culture of the ancient Mayans. As a companion piece there is "Mexico South," by Miguel Covarrubias, published by Alfred A. Knopf. It is the fascinating story of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec with outstandingly beautiful illustrations. A striking background for the display of these books are the colorful decorations that Edith Griffin of THE VILLAGE BOOKSHOP collected in her recent travels in Mexico and Guatemala.

Smart youngsters will find smart outfits at THE CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP now under the new management of Commander and Mrs. J. A. Ouellet. For the new baby there are complete layettes. Charming beach, play and party clothes for the younger set up to six. Even for the eight to twelvers there are a few choice selections, all at moderate prices. And for the so-hard-to-get nighties and pajamas look in at THE CARMEL KIDDIE SHOP.

An important announcement from THE VILLAGE CORNER next to the Post Office! Starting on Thursday, July 3, the hours will be from 8:30 a. m. until 11:30 p. m. daily. Carmelites who are abroad in the evening may select one of the nine delicious flavors of ice cream and watch it blended into a superb sundae or soda. And if the evening is a bit chilly there is always hot coffee, hot tea, hot chocolate, hot soup, hot fudge, hot butterscotch and hot doggies to be had at THE VILLAGE CORNER.

Booksellers Capture Nesbitt

At the Carmel Booksellers on Fifth and Mission street Phil Nesbill will be guest of honor at a party on Saturday, July 5. Nationally known for his historical period figures, Phil's oils and water colors, which will be on display, have delightfully caught The Spirit of '76, according to authorities in art circles. There will be other examples of his work, including Chinese and Guatemalan, as well. But it seems timely that the Early American period should be featured in celebration of the American national holiday.

Hostesses for the occasion will be Mrs. F. Robert Smith and Mrs. George Willox. John Harley and Warren Wright of the Carmel Booksellers cordially invite residents of the Monterey Peninsula and their weekend guests to drop in on Saturday, between the hours of 4 to 6 p. m. for refreshments.

Mrs. Grigsby Entertains, Travels

Mrs. Louise Grigsby's family has been having a series of get-togethers. Commander and Mrs. MacKinnon Lansdowne (the former Mary Agnes Grigsby), and son, Bundy, came from San Diego for a five-day house party at the Grigsby Valley home, La Bella Vista, and while there celebrated Commander Lansdowne's birthday. When he returned to the south, Mrs. Grigsby and Mary Agnes went to Portland, Oregon, their former home, where they were entertained by old friends. They also were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grigsby at Rhododendron, on Mt. Hood, who were on vacation there from their home in Piedmont. Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne and Mrs. Nelle Lehman will share the remaining two weeks of Mrs. Lansdowne's visit at Mrs. Grigsby's Valley home.

Attendance is growing at the Retired Officers' dinners which are held the first Tuesday in each month at the Officers' Club at Fort Ord. This week 101 left their easy chairs and firesides, and were delighted that they did. Colonel Owen R. Edith Griffin Wins Window Display Prize

Charles Scribners Sons has just wired Edith Griffin congratulations, announcing that the $50 prize for small bookstore display of Taylor Caldwell's novel, There Was a Time, has been awarded to her, as a result of George Cain's photograph of the Village Bookshop on Ocean Avenue. The terms of the contest stipulated that no materials should be used except the book itself, and the publisher's poster. Miss Griffin however took advantage of outside space to show Dunning Somers' fine lettering that asked, "Can Time Be Wrong?" in view of the fact that the magazine Time had published a critical review of this novel, and this probably influenced the judges when the award was made.

Miss Griffin had previously been awarded first prize by Harper Brothers for her window display of Quietly My Captain Waits, the novel of old Quebec by Evelyn Eaton, but in that case she had availed herself of the assistance of many Carmelites, who donated costume dolls and even a ship to be drawn across the window. In that case the ship dramatized the date of arrival of the new book.

Character Actor Here

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fadden, with their Welsh terrier Winkie, are in Carmel planning to stay at the Montague cottage in the Valley for several weeks. Many Carmelites have seen Tom Fadden often without noticing him by name. Recently at the Carmel Theatre three pictures were shown in which he had character parts: It's a Wonderful Life, with James Stewart, directed by Frank Kapra, in which Tom Fadden was the toll gate keeper; Pursued, with Teresa Wright, directed by Raoul Walsh, which showed Tom Fadden as a preacher; Cross My Heart, with Betty Hutton, directed by John Berry, in which Tom Fadden was Big Tom the piano mover. The next opportunity to see him on the screen will be when Cheyenne, a Dennis Morgan and Jane Wyman picture, comes to town. Watch for the stage coach driver in that.

Tom Fadden has been on the legitimate stage for years also, and the part he remembers with the deepest pleasure is the milkman in Thornton Wilder's play, Our Town, one year in New York and then other years touring Chicago and points west, including San Francisco. Tom remarks that of the three girls who took the lead in this play at various times, all three have since become movie stars: Teresa Wright, Dorothy McGuire and Martha Scott.

The Faddens are on call to return to Hollywood on short notice whenever Mr. Fadden's agent signs him up for another character part.

Mary Kilpatrick

Mary Holmes Kilpatrick, 84, who had lived in Carmel Highlands for more than 25 years, died on the morning of July 1. She was greatly loved for her extensive private charities, her assistance to the Red Cross, the Monterey Peninsula Community Center, Community Chest, Civilian Defense and USO. She and her lifelong friend, Ada Howe Kent, furnished the nurses' home at the Community Hospital when it was built, and they were called upon for many other services to the community.

Mrs. Kilpatrick, a native of Troy, New York, was the widow of Walter Fisher Kilpatrick, and she is survived by a daughter, Margaret Kent Kilpatrick of New York, and a son, Rear Admiral Walter Kenneth Kilpatrick of Hillsboro, California, both of whom arrived here in time to be with her before her death. Paul's Mortuary arranged for the funeral services yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Carmel Highlands home of the family, and Rev. Albert E. Clay officiated.

New Super Takes Over At C. H. S.

tion of vice-principal of the Carmel High School, and he considers the choice a matter of real responsibility inasmuch as the requirements of this community are unique. He will make announcement of his selection as soon as possible. The new taechers already appointed are:

High School: Enid Larson, biology, formerly of Oroville; Mrs. Helen McCoy, home economics, formerly Monroe, Washington; Mrs. Bonney Richards, social studies, formerly Chico; for the grade school: James Blee, formerly a state park ranger and from San Diego; Mrs. Marcia F. Devoe, from Monterey; Arthur J. Holman, music, from Eugene, Oregon; Mrs. Myra T. Mylar, from Fresno; Virginia Rush, from Palm Springs. Ernest Calley and Mrs. Anna Kohner have returned from a year's leave of absence and will resume their teaching when the term begins.

While he was superintendent of the Westwood school district and principal of the Chico High School Mr. Mitchell built a practice ski run which the whole community enjoyed. There is the suspicion of an idea forming in his mind now, as he looks out over the Carmel beach, that it might be possible to use the white sands for a skiing project. At least he promises to look into the matter as time goes on.

FIRE DESTROYS WARDROBE

Fire whistle blew at 2:50 a. m. on July 3, summoning 25 volunteers to Carpenter and Second, where living quarters over a garage, owned by Florence Leidig and occupied by Mrs. Aileen Patton, were set on fire by an electrical heater which was burning all night too close to lingerie hanging nearby. Mrs. Leidig estimates the damage to the apartment and the furniture which was stored in the garage as approximately $2,500. All of Mrs. Patton's clothes were destroyed as well. Mrs. Patton had to borrow clothing in order to go to Oakland Thursday morning to join her husband.
